Take Me Home!

Business to Business Expo Works!

Business to Business Expo put on by the Lady Lake Chamber of Commerce was a great success. Some 49 vendors set up. The event was sponsored by Insight. Pictured are vendors setting up and meeting their next door neighbors (vendors). The way it worked is there were four rows of vendors. Two of the rows of vendors rotate around the other two rows of vendors. You give a short presentation of what you do for a set time then you move to the next vender until you have seen each vendor at your table. Then everyone goes back to their table and the others two rows of vendors rotate around the second set of vendors until everyone has seen those vendors. There were plenty of door prizes and it was a real successful event.

Food vendors were Eaton's Beach, Chicken Salad Chick, and Sam's Club. We met a lot of businesses we had not seen before so based on that I would say it was great for us to get in front of new businesses.

Meet Cary Rada

Cary Rada

Candidate - Lake County Judge, Group 2

Cary Rada is very familiar with the court system in Florida. As an attorney for 22 years, he is an experienced trial and appellate attorney. A graduate of Stetson University College of Law, he has been practicing law in Lake County since 1995. Cary became a Board Certified Criminal Trial Lawyer in 2003. This is a significant achievement for any attorney as less than 1 percent of all lawyers in Florida are Board Certified Criminal Trial Lawyers.

Cary served in Lake County as Assistant State Attorney from 1995-2003, and for the first three years, he was one of the first prosecutors assigned to Judge Donna Miller's courtroom, who is retiring at the end of this year. Judge Miller inspired Cary to run for office, and after acquiring 22 years of Courtroom experience, he is humbled to have the opportunity to run for the seat that Judge Miller is vacating.

Cary acquired a strong work ethic while spending many weekends and summer breaks working in the construction industry with his father. After many years, he gained

AS I SEE IT

The media seems to think that ‘The Donald’ and ‘Hilary’ are the worst two Americans who ever tried to get elected. But, who knew that an American is leading the ‘Brexit’ Movement in England?

Apparently, just over half of the British people voted for ‘freedom’ from domination by the faceless and unelected ‘Eurocrats’ in Europe. The turmoil is a direct result of the George Bush’s selling out to a so-called ‘New World Order’.

Even Democrat John Kerry said, “This little thing called the internet is making it hard to govern.”

By ‘Govern’, of course he means control.

Contrary to the propaganda from our media, including Public Radio and Television, the number one concern of the British voters is their Free National Health Service. Other major concerns are the economy, taxation and education. Less than 20% say that immigrants are an important topic.

The leader of the ‘BREXIT’ movement is named Alexander Boris de Pfeffel Johnson, who was born in Manhattan, New York City. His family tree includes a Circassian-Turk, an illegitimate daughter of Prince Paul of Württemberg and a distant cousin, King George II of Great Britain. In fact, Johnson is distantly related to most of the royal families of Europe, as well as being an eighth cousin of a British Prime Minister.

His mother was the granddaughter of Americans Elias Avery Lowe of Russian Jewish descent. But he describes himself as a combination of Muslim, Jew, and Christian.

As ‘Alex’ Johnson, he went to Eton College, the elite boarding school in England, and promptly began calling himself ‘Boris’. Later, he wrote a newspaper column using words like “piccaninnies”, and “watermelon smiles” when referring to Africans. He has also praised the European colonialism in Africa.

As if that’s not enough, he referred to gay men as “tank-topped bumboys”, saying “We don’t want our children being taught some rubbish about homosexual marriage being the same as normal marriage”.

He describes same-sex marriage as “a ludicrous parody of the real thing”. Boris also said “If gay marriage was OK ... then I saw no reason in principle why a union should not be consecrated between three men, as well as two men; or indeed three men and a dog”.

As a politician it didn’t take long for scandal to erupt when the public learned of a telephone conversation between Johnson and a businessman friend who wanted to have an investigative journalist beaten up.

In the conversation, Johnson agreed to help as long as his name would be kept out of it. Then a British tabloid claimed that Johnson had an affair with a co-worker which resulted in two abortions. It wasn’t long before Boris was having another affair with another journalist.

Controversy was also generated when

Johnson admitted that while a student he had used drugs including cocaine.

Trump may be a buffoon, and Clinton may a liar, but, so far neither of them are in the same sewer as Boris.

‘til next time . . .

Marion County Sheriff's Office

I'm sure the temp Sheriff Gainey is well qualified, here is what he said: I am "disappointed, discouraged and quite frankly, a bit angry" after reading the report, which said Blair set a tone for the agency in which excessive force was inevitable. The other time I got a twinge was when he said "MY MEN" for some reason I had a problem with that term "My Men, when he had just dismantled half the department and at least nine or ten heads rolled.

During his Press Conference there was never a mention until the end of the meeting when I asked. In our country you are innocent until proven guilty. When the Sheriff and his top supervisors are found innocent how in the world could you fix this??? The answer was lame, something like that is for the States Attorney's Office to take care of.

Take note the timing of this indictment, during the last election the local States Atorney's Office released information that was not proven to be true to stop the process of making Blair Sheriff back then. The people said no!

Our political system is full of people who think they know what is best for us and no matter what we say they will make the decisions. I can only hope that we will come out of this with a strong Sheriff with strong leadership skills because trouble is coming and we had better be ready.

King of Jordan

It seems that ISIS captured a Jordanian pilot, put him in a cage, poured gas on him and burned him while filming it to show the world how evil they are. Now King Abdullah vows to fight ISIS to the end. You see the King is a pilot and has flown missions against ISIS.

Just looking out the front window.

Another first on the Loury Farm, actually three firsts. I watched a mama rabbit fight with a very large crow. The rabbit would jump straight up in the air and strike out with her front feet, then the crow would jump up kind of backwards but then go back and try to peck the rabbit. This went on for about five minutes, then a second crow started moving in from behind the rabbit. I opened the front door and broke it up. Two on one is not fair.

A couple of days later a peacock that used to visit came across the pasture where we have a young painted colt. The peacock tried to go around the colt and the colt would not let the peacock come in the yard to get a handful of corn we normally feed it. The President Coolidge once said the chief business of the American people is business. The U.S. government's role in business is as old as the country itself; regulation, taxation, consumer protection. Yet, despite the fact that the private sector continues to be this country's chief economic force, our government has begun to work against its small businesses.

Since the beginning of time, it's been entrepreneurs that drive the creation of innovation. True breakthroughs have been the result of an individual or small team who had an idea and the determination to see it through to fruition. In many cases, ignoring advice and the lack of what many would call standard market research/validation. While we enjoy the fruits of the rapid pace of innovations, it is the entrepreneur, slaving away alone or within a small firm, who is inventing the future. It's these entrepreneurs and their dreams that create economic opportunity for cities, regions and countries.

I've been a small businessman my whole life, but the closest I ever came to closing my doors was because of the federal government. This is an all too common situation in this country, and it's got to stop. We need to work to cut taxes and red tape, overhaul the IRS, and keep the federal government off our back. Our small businesses are job champions. Standing up for them will keep America strong.

Woman Robbed

After getting off work one night a woman, waiting for the bus, got spooked. She reached in her purse and gripped her gun. A man came out of the shadows and grabbed her purse. When he ran she found the gun still in her hand while her purse was gone. She fired six times and the man fell. Law enforcement took her before the judge and the judge asked "why did you shoot this guy six times?" "Because," she began, "when I pulled the trigger the seventh time it just clicked." The judge slammed the gavel and said "case dismissed."

■ Lady Lake Police

CHIEF CHRIS MCKINSTRY

THE LADY LAKE POLICE DEPARTMENT IS READY FOR HURRICANE SEASON. ARE YOU?

“Those who have not learned from history are doomed to repeat it.” That is especially true with hurricanes. Even though forecasting methods and tools are improving year after year, people are still at great risk if they are not prepared.

Experience has taught us that the best thing to do before a hurricane is prepare, so you can be confident during a storm that you’ve done everything you can to keep your family safe. As your Chief of Police, I want you to know that during a hurricane, you can depend on the resilience and resourcefulness of the men and women of the Lady Lake Police Department.

As a local law enforcement agency, we work year-round with our local, county, state and federal partners to improve our response, cooperation and communication during hurricanes. Just as we at the police department plan for unexpected weather emergencies, there is plenty you can do to make yourselves, your families and your homes ready for hurricane season. Don’t wait for a storm to threaten.

First, create a disaster supply kit that will last your family three to seven days. Ask yourself what you would need if you couldn’t get to a grocery store, pharmacy, bank or gas station for several days. Your kit should include a gallon per person per day of water, non-perishable food, a can opener, blankets and pillows, rain gear and sturdy shoes, first aid items, prescription drugs, toiletries, a flashlight and batteries, a battery-operated radio, a fully-charged cell phone as well as a non-cordless phone. Pack any special food, medicines or supplies you might need for an infant, an elderly person or a pet. Make sure you have credit cards and cash on hand and gas in your vehicle. Put all of your important documents such as insurance and medical records, bank account numbers and your social security card in a waterproof container or waterproof plastic bag.

Talk to your family about which place in your home would be the safest during a storm and at what point you would move to a shelter. Plan what to do with your pets if you have to evacuate and designate an out-of-state relative or friend to be a point of contact for each family member after a storm. Make sure children know when and how to call 911. But always remember that if a storm gets severe enough there may be limited or no emergency responders to assist until after the storm passes.

The Lady Lake Police Department is prepared to help you and your family in any emergency, but I encourage you to create a disaster supply kit and talk to your family about an emergency plan. On behalf of the men and women at the Lady Lake Police Department, I wish you and your family the safest possible hurricane season.

“I firmly believe that public trust and confidence in the Marion County Sheriff’s Office can be restored; the pride, satisfaction and morale of the dedicated Sheriff’s Office employees can be dramatically improved; and, the reputation for the crime solving ability of the Agency can again reach premier status in Florida.”

Dear Mr. Loury,
The Flip Side of the Story
Snail Drivers.

If you are not capable of driving the speed limit for one reason or another, that is your problem, and your responsibility to deal with it.

Making it our problem by snailing along on the road does not sit well with competent drivers. Why should your problem be our burden?

I have alternate plans on hold when it happens to me. Does not seem to be any time soon.

During 69 years of driving I have never had an accident or a ticket, while driving a 300 horsepower car approximately 20 times around the circumference of the earth.

There is a different perception in driving different types of cars. Had a small size loaner, once, and it was a shock driving that car. The feeling of speed is different. Fifty in the large car feels like snailing. Fifty in the small car feels like Daytona.

My bucket list has one item: Sprinting off against Mario Andretti .

Not everyone ages at the same rate. Genes are genes are genes.

Some are turtles, and some are hares. Turtles are as big a problem as hares.

Ladies and gentlemen: Start your engines!!!! Try to be mannerly on the road. Best we can do.

D.I. L.

Dear Mr Loury

This past week I spent some time at Walt's Brakes and More, one of your advertisers and a most reliable one at that.

I was able to read your May and June of the "Ocala DownTown" and realized how "deprived" I am not seeing it on a regular basis. I don't see it on the few times I'm in Town or just not at the places I frequent. Therefore I am enclosing a small check hoping you can mail me a copy each month.

There is more common sense information and personal agreement in it in quite a contrast with the Ocala Star Banner to which I no longer subscribe, (I do how ever buy the Sunday issue). Reading it every day would be detrimental to my health! Blood Pressure that is!

I am praying daily for Sheriff Blair who is getting such bad press from all sides and I am wondering just who or how many are behind it. Having lived in Marion County for forty years I am aware of much of the politics in many areas of our Governing Departments. Men like Rep. Dennis Baxley are far and few between. Sheriff Blair was a God sin after his previous :leaders" If Mr Dean should it would be a sad state of affairs.

Thank you for yours views on the subject and continued gratitude and prayers for your decision to publish not edit!

Sincerely JV.

PS I have called and written to many in D.C. concerning the "Waste Report" items you noted and others. It's never too late to try to make change for the better!

PUBLISHERS NOTE Read us online Ocaladowntown.com

To JV

Thanks for the letter and your views. We appreciate all of our readers even if they don't agree sometimes. It is refreshing to see people involved with the issues and governing heads. I think we are in agreement about Blair. I have talked to many people and it seems the opinion is that the States Attorney has been trying to make this happen for years, first in the Primary election 3 1/2 years ago and again now. Looking at the whole picture one bad guy took down five deputies and four administrators. The bad guy did not do this alone!

Of course I agree that Dennis Baxley is a pillar of this community and the communities around us. Every time I look around there he is putting forth his effort to help the communities he is involved in. He is a dedicated person.

Finally, I can't receive money for the paper. It would put me into a different category. I will void this check and mail your papers. If you wish to help, do it for our wounded service men and women. Thanks for being a reader. Keep sending your views.

We live in a Bizarro World where facts have no meaning and liberal hype is accepted as truth!

The NRA is all about gun safety and proper use of guns. It's against the law to shoot people at random. NRA members despise that type of gun use, as do all normal people.

NO PORK?????

There was an article in the local paper last week that I was reading, about these wonderful people who send packages to our troops in Afghanistan and you can donate things our Soldiers need or lack over there. Like toiletries, snacks etc., then it says No Pork items Please. I wondered about this, after all many snack items contain pork. We asked around and found that word came from above and I know it wasn't from the Lord that we didn't want to offend the country where OUR SOLDIERS ARE FIGHTING to help make that place safe .

Dear Editor:

What's the matter with the American people and "we" women in particular? Are we so anxious to have a woman president that we are willing to vote for someone who is a liar and totally corrupt. Someone who has received millions of dollars from foreign countries and Wall Street for herself and the Clinton Foundation while she was not only Secretary of State but also once she left. Foreign countries and huge corporations don't give millions of dollars and not expect something in return. Don't get me wrong, I would love to see a woman president. The right woman and Hillary is definitely not that woman. I always tell my girls that you can accomplish anything if you are honest, have integrity, work hard and have strong work ethics. How can I expect them to look up to a woman, who could possibly be president, who got where she is by deceit, corruption and lying? Who not only plays the woman card whenever she can but also panders to certain groups of people. Of all the issues in this election the two that concern me the most are jobs and security. When my children graduate from school, I would like for them to be able to get jobs. How many businesses has Hillary run and how many jobs has she created? None zip zero. What about security for my family and community? Hillary couldn't protect Ambassador Stevens and three other Americans in Benghazi, while she was Secretary of State, how in the world is she going to protect over 300 million people in the United States? There have already been terrorist attacks in the United States. Look at what happened in Orlando, San Bernardino, the Boston Marathon, etc. and yet the borders are wide open and she is an open border advocate. Do we even know who is coming in or how to vet them? It's time we put America first.

Dear Editor:

Big headlines in the Wall Street Journal, "Democrats Stage Sit-In Over Gun Bills." What in the world are we dealing with here a college campus, a kindergarten class or spoiled brats who have the mentality of if you don't do it my way, "I'm taking my ball and going home." Legitimate gun owners have rights too. We elected these people to Congress and they stage sit-ins. Come on. If they can't act like the adults we elected to Congress by working together, they should all be fired. I don't know about you, but I am sick and tired of this do nothing Congress.

Four Tips For Protecting Your Family From Fire

(NAPS)—According to the National Fire Protection Association, more than 350,000 home fires occur each year—but you can help your family stay safe.

Fire Safety Suggestions

Keep your family safe by:

1. Having at least one fire alarm on each floor of the house and in each bedroom.
2. Checking the batteries monthly and replacing them at least once a year, more often if necessary.
3. Helping kids identify what items are safe to play with in the house. “Many children who play with fire do so out of curiosity or a desire to emulate their parents,” explains Dr. Robert Cole, President of Fireproof Children and spokesperson for BIC’s play safe! be safe! fire safety education program. “Eliminate temptation by keeping lighters and matches out of sight and reach and by supervising playtime.”

4. Helping your youngsters understand fire safety. Children learn best when they feel comfortable. The play safe! be safe! program (www.playsafebesafe.com) provides teachers, parents and those who care for young children with the tools they need to teach kids about fire safety and prevention by sharing basic facts, playing games and visual storytelling.

Consider this: Parents know that birthday candles, when left unattended, can quickly start a roaring fire. Young children, however, cannot understand what could happen if they play with an unattended candle.

The first step to keep families safe is teaching children how to react to a fire emergency. Adds Dr. Cole, “Many young children are scared of strangers and loud noises. When a siren goes off and unfamiliar firemen in ‘scary’ masks enter their house to rescue those inside, a child’s first instinct will be to hide. Parents should teach their children what to do if they hear the fire alarm or see a firefighter coming to help.”

Parents and children can learn fire safety from an entertaining, educational website: www.playsafebesafe.com.

Parents can most effectively help their children overcome fear through positive messaging and reinforcement. Interactive games, such as the ones featured on the www.playsafebesafe.com site, let children learn in a safe, fun and rewarding way. Picture books, both fictional and nonfictional, can also be great learning tools. When children are able to see images of firefighters and their “scary-looking” gear in a safe and calm setting, they are less likely to panic in times of danger.

Since the program’s inception in 1994, BIC Corporation has distributed more than 114,000 fire safety education kits and more than 184 workshops with community leaders. Each play safe! be safe! kit includes a 20-minute multilingual video (in English, French Canadian and Spanish), colorful story cards, activity boards, a card game and a comprehensive teacher’s manual.

Impacts of Zika

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. – Governor Rick Scott announced that the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will host a call with Florida medical professionals, including OBGYNs and physicians specializing in family medicine, to discuss the neurological impacts of Zika and what precautions new and expecting mothers should take. This is in response to Governor Scott’s request for the CDC to host a call following the announcement of the first confirmed case of microcephaly in an infant born in Florida whose mother had a travel-related case of Zika. The CDC call will take place tomorrow afternoon and the Florida Department of Health will be sharing information with medical professionals on how to participate.

Governor Rick Scott said, “With more than 220 travel-related cases of Zika, and now Florida’s first confirmed case of a baby born with Zika-related microcephaly, it is critically important that Florida’s medical professionals remain educated and receive the latest information on the neurological impacts of this virus. Last week, I used my emergency executive authority to allocate $26.2 million in state funds for Zika preparedness, prevention and response in Florida and we will continue to do all we can to ensure our state stays ahead of the possible spread of the Zika virus.”

Can An Aspirin A Day Keep The Doctor Away?

(NAPS)—Aspirin is a familiar over-the-counter medicine that reduces pain. Taking a low-dose or “baby” aspirin every day has long been recommended to people who have had a heart attack or stroke, so they can prevent another one. Evidence now shows that for people aged 50 to 69 at increased risk of cardiovascular disease, aspirin can help prevent a heart attack or stroke from happening in the first place and, if taken for five to 10 years, can also help prevent colorectal cancer.

This is great news because cardiovascular disease and cancer are major causes of death in the United States. Heart attacks and strokes are responsible for 30 percent of all deaths, and colorectal cancer is the third most common type of cancer—causing 8.3 percent of all cancer deaths.

But just because aspirin is available over the counter doesn't mean it is safe for everyone to take on a daily basis. Aspirin can cause serious side effects, such as bleeding in the stomach and intestines, and strokes caused by bleeding in the brain. So daily aspirin is only recommended for people who are at increased risk of cardiovascular disease and who are not at increased risk for bleeding. You should not begin to take aspirin daily without speaking with your primary care clinician first.

Who Should Take Aspirin for Primary Prevention?

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force (Task Force) found that how much a person can benefit from taking aspirin depends on his or her age and risk of cardiovascular disease. Daily use of low-dose aspirin is the most beneficial for people 50 to 59 years old who have at least a 10 percent chance of having a heart attack or stroke in the next 10 years. The Task Force recommends that people in this group start taking aspirin after talking with their primary care clinician.

People 60 to 69 years old with increased cardiovascular disease risk can also benefit from taking aspirin, but because the risk of bleeding goes up with age, the overall benefit is smaller. Therefore, people in this group should make a decision with their primary care clinician about whether or not to take aspirin.

It is not clear whether taking aspirin is beneficial for people with increased risk of cardiovascular disease who are younger than 50 or older than 69. More research in this area is needed.

A number of factors go into determining a person's risk of cardiovascular disease, including age, sex, race, blood pressure level, total cholesterol level, and high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol level—also known as “good cholesterol.” Whether a person has diabetes, smokes, or takes blood pressure medication can also affect his or her risk of cardiovascular disease. Talk to your primary care clinician if you are between 50 and 69 years old to determine your risk for cardiovascular disease and for bleeding, and to determine if taking a daily aspirin is right for you.

Other Ways to Reduce Your Risk

Everyone can reduce his or her risk of cardiovascular disease and colorectal cancer by quitting smoking, eating a healthy diet and being physically active. Keeping blood pressure and cholesterol under control can also help prevent cardiovascular disease. Regular screening remains an important part of preventing colorectal cancer. The Task Force currently recommends colorectal cancer screening for people 50 to 75 years old, and for some individuals between 76 and 85 years old.

Does Aspirin Prevent Other Cancers, Too?

There is growing evidence that aspirin may also help to prevent cancers other than colorectal cancer, such as cancers of the esophagus and stomach. However, the evidence on aspirin to prevent these cancers is still new and not yet strong enough to be part of a recommendation.

No group currently recommends that people take aspirin for the prevention of cancer only, even for people who are at increased risk of cancer. In order for the potential benefits of taking aspirin to outweigh the potential risks, a person must have increased risk of cardiovascular disease.

Recommendations to Protect Your Health

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force is an independent group of national experts in primary care, prevention, and evidence-based medicine. The aim of the Task Force's work is to evaluate and identify critical preventive health services that a primary care clinician can perform.

For more information on the Task Force and to read the full report “Aspirin Use for the Primary Prevention of Cardiovascular Disease and Colorectal Cancer” and the recommendation about screening for colorectal cancer, visit www.uspreventiveservicestaskforce.org.

Don't Let The Wrong Battery Stall Your Outdoor Enjoyment

(NAPS)—Since it's hard to enjoy the outdoors if you can't start your car, boat, motorcycle or all-terrain vehicle (ATV), choosing the right kind of battery designed for your vehicle make, model and usage habits is very important.

These tips can help.

Automotive batteries

It's important to understand the tests used to measure battery performance. The two most common are cold cranking amps (CCA) and reserve capacity (RC).

CCA measures the number of amps a battery can deliver for 30 seconds at 0° F. This is a useful comparison-shopping tool because it's performed the same way by every manufacturer.

RC measures the number of minutes a battery can withstand a continuous draw of 25 amps. Today's vehicles have more on-board and consumer-installed electronics than ever before, and many systems require constant power even when the engine isn't running.

Frequent, short trips also increase the need for additional reserve capacity because the battery may not have enough time to re-charge between stops and starts.

Results of both tests can be found on the battery or online. Check your owner's manual to find the right specifications for your vehicle.

Motorcycle and ATV batteries

The most common powersport batteries are conventional lead-acid batteries and absorbed glass mat (AGM) batteries, also called maintenance-free batteries.

While conventional lead-acid batteries are typically less expensive, they require more routine maintenance. Users must visually check the electrolyte level through the opaque white case of the battery. If the level is low, it must be refilled with distilled water to keep up performance and avoid an explosion.

AGM batteries are more expensive but need less maintenance and perform well in extreme climates.

Conventional and AGM powersport batteries come with acid bottles for filling the batteries. A motorcycle battery charger should be used to activate these batteries once filled.

Marine batteries

Marine batteries are different from car batteries. A marine battery needs to crank over an engine and supply the energy needed for continued accessory use.

For that, marine starting batteries—also known as cranking batteries—are a good fit.

If you need to power many electronic devices, such as trolling motors, GPS or fish finders, a deep cycle battery can be better.

To help, ACDelco offers a full line of automotive, marine and powersport batteries for most makes and models. To learn more and find the right battery to power your outdoor fun, visit www.acdelco.com.

To get your motor running, whether in a car, boat, ATV or motorcycle, you need a properly charged battery.

Don't Cry Over Spilled-Gasoline

(NAPS)—If you're like most Americans, you may have made a dirty mistake: An online survey conducted by Harris Poll, on behalf of Briggs & Stratton in October of 2015 among 3,027 U.S. adults aged 18+, discovered that 70 percent of consumers have spilled gasoline on their hands, clothes, car or outdoor power equipment when trying to fill up their outdoor power equipment or vehicle.

The Problem

The study also revealed:

- Men aged 55–64 have the highest propensity for spilling gas
- 48 percent of Americans said they have spilled gas on their vehicle
- 40 percent of Americans have spilled gas on their hands while pumping gas into their vehicle
- 21 percent of Americans have spilled gas on their clothes while pumping gas into their vehicle.

A Solution

Fortunately, there is an easy way to remove gasoline and diesel odor and residue.

Called Gas Off, it's packaged in convenient single-use foil packs, an eight-ounce spray bottle, a 15-wipe flat pack handy for glove compartments, and a 36-wipe canister good for a garage or workshop.

It doesn't mask the smell like other sprays, cleaners and home remedies; it eliminates it. The special nontoxic formula removes the gasoline and diesel odor and residue from fuel spills and grime from pumps, leaving your hands clean and odor-free. The plant-based solution from Briggs & Stratton Corporation, the world's largest producer of gasoline engines for outdoor power equipment, is safe for use on fabrics, chrome, plastic and paint surfaces as well as skin. Plus, it won't dry out hands as alcohol-based cleaners can. Briggs & Stratton also recommends not overfilling your gas tank, as gas is highly flammable.
